MEMORIAL WINDOW TO LATE REV. W. H. FANNING HARRIS

The late Capt. W. H. Fanning Harris, formerly Rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church in Red Deer, is to be fittingly remembered by a stained glass memorial window over the altar in that Church. As he was the first Chaplain of the Canadian forces to give up his life in his noble profession, the overseas chaplains raised a fund to place a white marble cross on his grave, and there was a surplus of some $180, which was sent to the Bishop of the diocese to be dedicated to a memorial in St. Luke's Church. The W.A. have taken the matter in hand and will raise the balance necessary to place the window in the Church. Rev. Mr. Harris joined up for service and went overseas the early part of 1916, having been rector of St. Luke's for the first time since the Rev. C. W. G. Moore went over in the fall of 1914.

BOX SOCIAL AT CONCORD A GREAT SUCCESS.

The box social held by the U.F.A. at Concord on Friday, was to say the least, a great success, although it had rained all day Friday and very bad roads were experienced at night. The hall was filled with people and fancy boxes were filled with gifts and were auctioned off by Mr. H. K. Blair, who performed the task with great credit to himself and satisfaction to the people. The goods were sold for the box which sold for the highest price, $10.00, to Mrs. Wm. Rutherford, who received a prize of a handsome box of goods. The total receipts of the evening were the grand sum of $115.00, the major portion of which goes to pay the deficiency of the U.F.A. The U.F.A. is leaving for Toronto to continue his studies, the balance will be devoted to the piano fund.

THE PRINCE AT EDMONTON

Bursts of cheering shortly after nine o'clock on Friday morning told all Edmonton that the prince had arrived. His Royal Highness, Edward, Prince of Wales, the first heir to the throne to visit Edmonton and even Alberta, arrived at the station platform at the C.P.R. depot at thirteen minutes after nine o'clock on Friday morning. He was greeted by His Honor Lieutenant Governor Brett, Premier Charles Stewart, Mayor Joseph A. Clarke, Chief Justice Harvey, Brig.-Gen. McDonald, commanding this military district, and Hon. Chas. Mitchell.

After shaking hands with all those gathered on the platform, the prince walked across the bridge and on to the station platform. As he approached, the veterans' guard of fifteen, commanded by Captain Scott, D.C.M., came to the royal salute, while the bands played the national anthem.

As the bayonets flashed upward and the music crashed out, the prince waved his hand to the salute in acknowledgment.

He at once walked over to Captain Scott, and shook hands with him. It was noticed that the prince offered his left hand, explaining to the commander of the guard that his right hand was almost paralyzed with so much handshaking.

VETERANS RAISE CHEER.

After a minute inspection of the guard, in which he was accompanied by Captain Scott, Major-General Barstall, and his equerry, Lord Claude Hamilton, His Royal Highness met Dr. Collins, president of the Edmonton branch of the G.W.V.A., and acknowledged the cheers of the fifteen hundred veterans lined up down the driveway. He explained to Dr. Collins that he would not inspect the veterans just then, but would reserve that pleasure until the afternoon at the memorial hall.

HEARD HIS USUAL SEAT.

Immediately after the prince entered his car, taking his usual place in the right hand corner of the rear seat. His Honor, the Governor, beside him, the front seat, with the driver, was Capt. the Honorable P. W. Leigh, equerry to His Royal Highness.

It was just nine twenty-five when the brilliant escort of the Royal North West Mounted Police wheeled into the street, and began to move off, one section preceding the car and one following.

FACE BEAMING IN SMILES.

The city's first burst of cheering burst out again, in deafening volume. His Royal Highness stood up in the car and waved his hand to the crowd, his blue eyes gleaming and his face beaming in smiles.

As the royal car reached Jasper avenue the thousands of school children who were lined up on both sides of the street burst out cheering and waving their hands. Every child there took it as a personal grievance that the prince was not stopping to shake hands with them. Then the cavalcade moved on down Jasper avenue, halted a moment at the intersection of the street with the St. John's district where singing and then, to every one's surprise, went on down Jasper avenue to the Macdonald hotel.

A short stop was made here, and then the procession went on down to the Prince of Wales hotel.

The city's first burst of cheering greeted the Prince of Wales when he landed his eyes this morning in the Leeds district, twenty miles from Edmonton. Capt. Wilfred May, D.F.C., rose from the stable field and circled about the royal train in his plane, "The City of Edmonton." He flew very close to the train, rising only when close to fences and trees. His clean, expert handling of his plane was the talk of the town during the hour in which he escorted his royal highness into the provincial capital. Cameras were busy in the hands of professional and amateur photographers, and some moving pictures were taken from the platforms by an American camera man.

THE C.N.R. REPORTED AT WORK ON LINE INTO RED DEER.

The Canadian Northern Railway authorities show signs of activity on their proposed line into Red Deer. Centre lines have been struck, trees are being cut down on their right of way into the city. Red has been unloaded near Lethbridge, and we understand a gravel pit near that place has been secured for ballasting purposes. It is stated the line into Red Deer will be completed by November 1st. If that is the case the company will have to hustle. Considerable grading has to be done to reach the bridge, and the bridge itself is ready for erection at first it is claimed, but temporary freight sheds and other necessary buildings will be erected for the present. The work cannot be pushed too soon to suit the citizens.

RED DEER

OF RED DEER, ALBERTA,
CANADA.

The Victory Tour of the National Editorial Association is now at an end and each editor is presumably back at his own paper. The publisher of the Times-Enterprise feels that it was a wonderful tour and one that he would not have missed for many times what it cost him. A portion of the trip has already been covered by articles written enroute and sent in from various points, but there are still many interesting points of which no mention or at least very brief mention, has yet been made and it is our intention to devote some space each week to a description of these places. This week we want to tell our readers something about the little city of Red Deer, located on a river, and the same name about midway between Calgary and Edmonton, in western Alberta, Canada.

Red Deer has a population of something less than three thousand people, and is one of the most progressive cities in our country. When a city of that size can employ a staff of 225 hungry editors and send them away well fed and happy there must be something in the air. It is our intention to devote some space each week to a description of these places. ## PEACE TREATY IS ADOPTED BY STRAIGHT PARTY VOTE 102-70

Amendment Offered by Fielding Quilley After Defeated by Same Vote; Keen Debate During Close of Discussion.

Ottawa, Sept. 11th.—The house divided at 115 a.m. on the Pleading amendment to the peace treaty resolution, with the result: Against 102; for, 70.

Throughout the night and till the early morning hours, debate continued in the house of commons on the peace treaty. In the afternoon proceedings were spirited, a succession of sharp verbal duels. There came, too, the first amendment to the motion of Sir Robert Borden that parliament do approve of the treaty of peace between the allied and associated powers and Germany. The amendment was Hon. W. S. Fielding's and it was seconded by Ernest Lapointe, of Kamouraski, and asked that this clause be added to the resolution before the house:

"That in giving such approval this house in no way assents to any impairment of the existing autonomous authority of the Dominion, but declares that the question of what if any, the forces of Canada shall take in any war, actual or threatened, is one to be determined at all times as occasion may require by the people of Canada through their representatives in Parliament."

The main speakers were Mr. Fielding and Hon. C. J. Doherty. As the debate proceeded the galleries filled. Till in the evening they were crowded. From each side of the house as either Mr. Fielding or Mr. Doherty held the floor, came rapid fire questions. Mr. Fielding argued that Canada was still a dependency, subject to international questions to British government; Mr. Doherty that Canada was one of nations constituting the empire.

Mr. Fielding thought that ratification by Canada was "a great humbug." He asked why Canada should go through the tangle of ratification. Mr. Rowell, he said, aimed opposition laughter, was not competent for him to read any communication reflecting on the government, on the orders of the day.

Mr. Doherty replied that nationhood was a matter of fact, not what was written in a statute book. Canada had played a nation's part and been recognized as a nation. Canadian delegates to the conference, said Mr. Doherty, had not "sneered" at Canada. They had not secured the right to sit on international conferences by saying "We are a little colony—please be good enough to send us home. We are an economical country and the cost of living is high."

Mr. Doherty added that a vote for the Fielding amendment would be a vote against the league of nations. REFLECTED ON GOVERNMENT. Mr. McKenzie started to read a telegram from Ontario Liberals protesting against some action of the prime minister and government. He was, however, stopped by the speaker, who stated that it was not competent for him to read any communication reflecting on the government, on the orders of the day.

Mr. McKenzie: "Well, I am prevented from reading the telegram." Hon. C. J. Doherty said that it had been suggested that the house go into committee on the peace treaty resolution before it was disposed of. It was unnecessary to do this unless members desired it. He wished to know whether it was still the desire of the house to consider the resolution in committee.

Mr. McKenzie replied that the understanding was that the resolution should be disposed of today. He thought that it should go through the committee stage as soon as possible. COMPLAINS OF TIME LIMIT. Col. W. C. Peck asked by what right the leader of the government and of the opposition, without consulting their followers, put a time limit on the discussion of the peace treaty. It was, he said, "the most important matter since the birth of Christ."

Members had been sent by their constituents to represent them to the best of their ability, and they should be given proper time to discuss important measures. Mr. McKenzie remarked that he had tried to get as much time as possible for the discussion from the prime minister.

Mr. Doherty observed that a time limit had been put on the debate with no idea of curtailing discussion or robbing the house of its business. The whole object was to gain ratification as soon as possible. The sooner the treaty was ratified the sooner would Canada be the whole world begin to reap its benefits. There would be time for a complete discussion on it when a bill to give the governor in council power to ratify the treaty into effect was before the house.

SITS BUCKING BRONCHO WHEN IN SASKATOON

MOUNTS ONE OF THE HORSES AFTER STAMPED FOR PERFORMANCE IS OVER.

Saskatoon, Sask., Sept. 11.—For the first time in the history of Saskatchewan the heir to the throne visited here today and was accorded a welcome the likes of which have never before been witnessed in the district. Fifty 50,000 people were in the city, farmers from the districts for miles around journeying in to pay honor to the young prince.

His highness, Prince of Wales, is always thought of as a cold city and cheers are practically unknown here but today was different as his royal highness passed through crowded streets of cheering people. After being publicly received by Mayor P. R. McMillan, his royal highness decorated a number of returned soldiers with medals for gallantry. A visit was then paid to the University, where an address was delivered by Sir Frederick Haultain.

Again, passing through cheering crowds, the prince was driven out to the exhibition grounds, where he witnessed a stampede, something which he had never seen before. Riding bucking bronchos, steer throwing, wild horse races, steer riding, lassoing wild horses, all kept the prince greatly interested.

RIDES BUCKING BRONCHO. When the performance was over and his royal highness was about to leave, he asked permission to ride one of the bucking bronchos and amid the wildest cheering his royal highness rode down the track surrounded by cowboys and cowgirls. He then had his photograph taken on the horse, surrounded by his strange bodyguard.

Catching the automobile again to make the return journey the prince was practically mobbed, and sitting on the hood of the car wildly waving his hat and with a body of cowboys giving their famous yells, the prince left the exhibition and went to the home of the mayor and was introduced to a number of ladies who had worked for patriotic societies.

This is the first heir to the throne to visit Saskatchewan, but the prince captured all hearts by his handsome face and cheerful smile.

PRINCE'S BUY OCTOBER OATS SHOWS A LOSS.

Winnipeg, Sept. 11.—While watching the large blackbirds with their hundreds of ever changing figures and listening to the bellows of the many traders endeavoring to sell on the grain exchange Wednesday, His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, purchased 50,000 bushels of October oats at 32½ cents. Immediately the deal was closed the market fell 1½ cent to 31½ cents. October delivery eventually closed at 32½, making a drop of 2½ cent after the prince made his speculation, which proved a temporary loss to himself of $375. The broker who sold to His Royal Highness promised him a profit of at least $2,000 on his return from the west.

NEWS WEEKLY SERMON

By REV. GEO. D. ARMSTRONG

And this word, yet once more, signifies the removing of those things that are shaken, as of things that are made, that those things which cannot be shaken may remain.—Heb. 12: 27.

The epistle to the Hebrews is of very great interest and value, in that it expresses the abiding faith of one who discovered in the ruins of an old system of religion the foundations of a religion which is universal and eternal.

The disappointment of their hopes of a restored kingdom of Israel and the breaking up of institutions which had long expressed the religious life of the nation was a severe test to the faith of this great people.

The very foundations of life were crumbling and they found it exceedingly difficult to reconcile the processes through which they were passing, with their view of the nature of God.

This letter was written by one who was not at all disturbed by the changes which were taking place; but who rather found in these events the justification of faith.

To the mind of this writer the whole of our life is the outworking of a divine process in which God fulfils His purpose, speaking with ever increasing clearness His message through the prophets until in the fullness of time, He perfects the incomplete forms and symbols which have been in the person and work of Christ and the Christian religion.

"The letter falls, the systems fall, and every symbol which has been used in the past, is to be replaced by the new and the eternal love remains."

An appreciation of the faith of this writer and an understanding of the significance of his message, would do much to steady the faith of those who are disturbed by the events that are taking place in the world today.

I will help men to see that Christian fundamentals are maintained, not by preserving the authority of the past, but by leading men to an ever increasing knowledge of God's life in the soul, of God's law in the universe, and of those forces, which, moving on without rest and without pause, are surely establishing His Kingdom.

"A tremendous gift of power is now on, and men and women are everywhere engaged in separating the essential from the unessential, the valuable and the useless from the inconsequential. They are believing, and are finding, that religion, and action all the religion, is something that relates itself intimately and fundamentally to the minutest affairs of the daily life. They are finding that it contains an inspiration and a force that can be appropriated and can be infused into and made to mould the everyday conditions of life, not merely something to be accepted on authority as something to be believed about its Founder."

There is a very great earnest in the world today—it may produce despair as the mind of man is baffled by the things which perplex him, but on the other hand this earnest has in it something of the irresistible energy of God Himself, as He creates a world.

more perfect than has ever been.

This spirit is leading men to investigate the real content of their faith. What really was the nature of Christ? What is the significance of His teaching? What does it mean to be saved? What is the Church? Is it organized and working along lines that would be acceptable to its Founder? Does its spirit correspond with what we know of Him and is it voicing the message which He would send to men in this age?

It is the comprehension and the using of the simple but fundamental laws of living that He perceived, lived, and set forth that constitutes the mightiest driving force in life that we yet know."

Our social system is being tested, not less in the period of reconstruction, than under the tremendous pressure of world conflict. In some respects we are passing through a reformation that bears a likeness to the stirring events which are associated in the history of our own country with the rebellion of 1837.

We are as loyal to the crown, as represented in the visit of the Prince of Wales, as our fathers were to the person of the young Queen Victoria. We are as fully determined as were they to proceed along constitutional lines the pathway of reform, but we are equally determined that the ideals of freedom and democracy which we cherish most deeply shall not be nullified by our existing system.

Educational development, political reform, economic justice and religious unification indicate the lines upon which we shall surely proceed.

GOLF ON SUNDAY.

Golf is one of the most healthy, invigorating, pure and wholesome games in existence and with all that one of the most interesting and fascinating to the participant. Is it any wonder some citizens who are pent up all week, take the opportunity to go out on a Sunday and commune with nature. They stretch their hands to heaven and breathe in the pure air the God of nature has given them, and they tread on the green grass and feel as happy as children at play. Their cares are forgotten. Can such a condition be a sinful one? God only can put it in the heart of men to feel that way, and we contend that these men are unconsciously worshipping the God of nature, the God of health, and the God of the whole universe in this craving for pure air, for exercise, for that splendid vigor that communion with nature only can give. The great argument was created, and its width and depth has never been measured. There are still great planets placed in the heavens by the Creator, the light of which has never yet reached the earth, so far are they away.

If one man who enjoys the pure air of heaven lifts his voice and thanks God for it, even though he is knocking a little white ball around with a stick, his heart is sound and he has had far more worship with his creator than some have had who go to church. In the beginning God said "let there be light and there was light." May that light be the light of truth that we may understand what God really means by true worship. The trees, the streams, the fields, all nature, worship Him, then why can't men get away from the stuffy buildings into the fields and pure air and thank God for the opportunity? There is no more sin in playing golf on Sunday, in our opinion, than there is in cranking a car and going for a ride. There is no more sin than going in bathing. There is no more sin than taking the baby out for an airing, or taking a ride on the train. Christ, who, by the way, never preached in a church, was harder on the Pharisees, the hypocrites, the proud of heart, than any other class, and by the way, Christ Himself was corrected by the Pharisees for breaking the Sabbath.

There is one point we would like to add to the above. The church that is tolerant of such things on Sunday will get the support of a large number of broad-minded men who will not fight if they are sinning in the sight of God by playing golf on Sunday.

NOT YET REPENTANT.

Some very sincere people, in Canada and elsewhere, are in the habit of saying that Germany, having learned her lesson, is now kneeling in the penitential form and that the time has come to forgive and forget. It can well be argued, remarks the Winnipeg Telegram, that a Christian, if he be consistent, is called upon to forgive as he hopes to be forgiven, although sincere repentance is an indispensable factor in his own forgiveness and therefore to be looked for in those whom he is asked to forgive.

The "fruits meet, for repentance" afford the only sure proof that the offender has repented of his evil ways and purposes, sincerely and humbly, to alter his life, and as far as possible, to make amends for the evil he has wrought. It is unfortunately, impossible to find any evidence that Germany has thus repented, and any amends which she may make will only be those that she is forced to make, and that under protest, which clearly proves that she does not contrite that she has anything to repent of but that, on the contrary, she is the party aimed against. If she at all ceases to do evil it is not because she has learned to do well, but because she has, for the time being, had her power to do evil very much curtailed, that the police are too strong for the lawbreaker.

Nor is it quite clear that her power has yet been sufficiently curtailed to render her incapable of continuing to sin. She is still a power to be reckoned with, and she is still leading up to the war, although she must, perforce, alter her methods somewhat. Germany may no longer be able to fight in the open, the power though not the will being lacking, but by intrigue and specious propaganda, camouflaged sometimes to look properly, she can do, and is doing, incalculable harm to others that she may, by restoring her fallen prestige, do good to herself. For one agency, the Bolshevik is her cat paw, and any chastity which may be pulled out of the fire in that way will be, we may be well assured, chestnuts for German consumption.

The latest evidence against Germany's represented repentance comes from Poland and is offered by the Premier of that freedom-loving State, Mr. Ignace Jan Paderewski. That gentleman, however, defeated on the West, has turned to the east, where she is waging a battle with the hope of achieving the victory she has been unable to achieve on the west, and he goes on to detail the German activities around Poland.

Mr. Paderewski says further: "In the Baltic States of Russia, the Germans are fomenting discord, and lending assistance to the Bolsheviks. On all sides we are forced to face this new war that Germany is waging against the Allies, and she is making every effort to hamper us in our battle against disorder. German propagandists are twisting every dash between our troops and the Bolsheviks into Jewish pogroms."

Once more in centuries gone by, has Poland taken up the mantle of single-handed world's champion for freedom, and it seems scarcely unfair that she should be left to stand in the breach alone and unaided.

The facts cited prove that Germany is far from being in a state to be forgiven and show that to forget would be insane and fatal folly.

CORRESPONDENCE

Editor News, Red Deer.
Sir,—Kindly allow me a few lines in your paper in the way of an answer to a small item in the last issue. I am glad to see that you do not have a certain class of people in Red Deer take their minds off that subject, as there is always something in the papers. Are they getting so much better that they are not going to go out and play as well?

I think it would be very beneficial if the people of Red Deer would leave that subject alone, and take up something which is a very serious subject, and that is our young men and boys of the city at the present time.

1. Where have the boys to go in the evening? No place but a smoke-clogged pool room, where they mix in with all classes of bad people.

2. If they do not care to go to a pool room, what then?

Well, as far as I can see, it is to go out and walk up and down the street.

Why do not this class of people, who are doing all of this talking, or going and getting a place fixed up for boxing and wrestling and basketball, and other games, for the young men and boys, instead of wasting so much breath on highest golf?

Get some of those old time silly ideas out and get in new. We are not living yesterday but today.

SUNDAY GOLF

IS IT "PLAYING THE GAME?"

The following has been sent in by Rev. W. O. Brown with a request for publication, and is a cutting from the Presbyterian Record for September: The traditions of golf are fairness and honor. To slip a bare out of a bad lie, or to hand in a false score is dishonorable and despised. It is not "playing the game."

How does Sunday golf conform to these traditions?

Is it "playing the game" with ourselves? If man is more than a mere animal, more than material; if there is even a sporting sense that the great teachings of the Bible are true,—that there is a God to whom we are responsible,—that we are immortal,—that our happiness or opposite—or that immortality depends upon our attitude towards that God,—that soon the only things left to us will be the things unseen,—is it "playing the game" with ourselves? Is it fair to ourselves to give to physical sport the one day that is specially set apart to give opportunity for the study of these great questions of our future destiny? To ignore entirely the things which will soon be only interests we will have?

When we look back to the time of life, or from beyond this life, when our only possessions will be our memories, and when we will realize the importance of the things that we do now, will we then look back with satisfaction and thankfulness to the Sundays spent on the links? Will we be satisfied that we have "played the game" with ourselves?

Is it "playing the game" with your wife? One day I overheard a man say to another: "If I were your wife, I would not stand for it. You are away all week at your work and you don't give her your Sunday, or help in caring for and teaching the children."

Is it "playing the game" with your children? You are shaping their characters for time and eternity. Sunday is one day set apart for you to teach them, by precept and example, the things that concern their eternal destiny.

Is it fair to them, as young immortals committed to you for training, to neglect that side of their being, to bring them up as if they were merely animals, with no nobly wants, with no future to look to and prepare for? Is it fair to them to teach them nothing of that immortality—that God and Saviour with whom they have to do?

As they look back from the future, if they have no regrets, will they regret that they did not play the game? Will they regret that they did not give their Sunday for their true betterment instead of for your own pleasure?

Will you have any regrets on that score if they go astray in life? You cannot give your responsibility to their mothers or to the Sabbath school. The children are ours and you have responsibilities for their destiny.

Is it "playing the game" with only to neglect your children, but to set them the example of using the Sabbath in sport, to lead them in a way which will only result in sorrow for their lasting well-being, but shuts out that well-being from their knowledge and attainment?

But perhaps you have neither wife nor child. Yet there are others affected by your Sunday golf.

Is it "playing the game" with the society? It deprives them of the day in seven which is given them to attend more especially to their own higher being. Is it "playing the game" to rob them of that day?

Will it be a pleasant memory, when things unseen are all, and when you have nothing left on but memories, to look back and think that for your own passing pleasure, you have deprived them of the day that was specially given them by God for their highest interests?

Is it "playing the game" with the community? Your example always influences some one. A community is what its Sabbath is. A Sabbathless community is in that measure a Godless community. A Godless community tends to become an unsafe, a criminal community, and Sunday golf helps, in its measure, to make a community Godless. Is it "playing the game" to do this your part towards the community law-abiding and safe and sweet and wholesome?

Is it "playing the game" with Jesus Christ? If he knew our immortal destiny to be of such value as to give His life to save that destiny from being one of sin and consequent misery; is it "playing the game" with Him, when He wants that great fact of salvation from sin to be widely known and impressed upon all, that we should give the day intended for that fact, the Lord's day, to the pleasures of the golf links and to keeping the world's attention away from Him? Is it playing fair with Him that when he values our eternal life so highly and sacrificed so much for it, that we should treat that love and sacrifice of His so lightly?

Is it "playing the game" with God? If He "loved the world" that He gave His only Begotten Son, that whoever believeth in Him shall not perish but have everlasting life; if He has set apart one day seven as His own, when men can not only rest from toil, but learn of Him, cultivate the acquaintance of "Our Father in Heaven," if He holds special receptions for His children on this Sabbath day in His own house, where He has promised to be with them, and where He has promised to be with them, if He holds special receptions for them, they may get better acquainted with Him, is it "playing the game" that God and His day and His reception should thus be ignored?

"Oh, but I am not a member of the Church." That does not free any man from obligation. It is God's day, not man's highest and best interests, and declining to acknowledge one's obligations does not make those obligations any the less. Is it "playing the game" with God, is it giving Him a fair, square deal, that His day—HIS DAY—should be taken and diverted to your own sport.

Oh, but I am spending the day among the beauties of nature, God's great out of doors! I can worship there. Who ever thinks of God or His works on the golf links? By the way, the links are the ball."

Will Sunday golf help you at the last to hole out a glad winner on the "Honey Green?"

E.S.
N.B.—If not a golfer, please remember that the above principles will apply to all ways in which the Sabbath may be diverted from its high purpose to ones own passing pleasure.

BORDEN NEVER REFUSED TO MEET THE VETERANS

ROWELL SAYS THE PRESS REPORTS ARE ALL WRONG.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—In the house of commons today, N. W. Rowell, speaking for the government, gave absolute denial to the press report that Sir Robert Borden had refused an interview to a deputation of G.W.V.A. officials. Mr. Rowell said that the prime minister was glad to meet such a deputation at any time.

Mr. Rowell replied that there would be full provision for the hearing of all interested parties, the same as there had been in the case of the pensions committee.

Mr. Rowell read a statement in the house today in regard to war gratuity for returned soldiers, which he said Sir Robert Borden had intended to lay before the house, but was unable to do so on account of his illness.

The statement reviewed the correspondence between Sir Robert Borden and the G.W.V.A. in respect to the requested appointment of a commission to inquire into the question of a further bonus.

Mr. Rowell also read a comparative statement of the gratuities granted by the various allied countries to war veterans. The figures given were based on the gratuity of a private with three years' service. They showed that Australia granted $14.15, and single $18.52; New Zealand, married, $4.55; plus $7 for each child under 16 years, $34.69; and Canada, married men with overseas service, $600, single $420, and with home service, married men $300, single, $210.

In addition to this gratuity, said Mr. Rowell, the government accepted responsibility for giving pensions to the widows and orphans of dead soldiers. The pensions were not payable until the soldier was totally disabled; retreating of soldiers partially disabled; assisting returned soldiers to obtain employment, and settling soldiers who desired it on the land.

Mr. Rowell stated that a bill to assist in the re-establishment of returned soldiers in the private sector, the senate, but as the upper house had adjourned till September 22, it had been decided to introduce the bill into the house of commons without delay, appointing a special committee to give it consideration.

VETERANS SATISFIED.
Ottawa, Sept. 12.—The Great War Veterans' association officials in Ottawa feel that their request for a commission has been adequately met by the statement in the house today by N. W. Rowell, who the president of the privy council stated that a special parliamentary committee would be formed to deal with the whole matter and make recommendations to parliament.

C. G. McNeill, Dominion secretary of the G.W.V.A., said that the members of the special committee now in Ottawa to represent the association in this matter "consider Mr. Rowell's statement a satisfactory reply, insofar as the appointment of a commission is concerned."

Mr. McNeill said that all G.W.V.A. commands had been advised to this effect by telegram, and members of the committee would now lay their attention to getting together all the evidence which will be placed before the special committee of the house at this sitting.

In reference to Mr. Rowell's statement as to what Canada has done for her returned soldiers, Mr. McNeill emphasized that it was admitted by the G.W.V.A. that Canada had been exceedingly generous in her treatment of her war veterans, but there were still some deficiencies and inequalities which require remedies, and to remove these inequalities is the aim of the G.W.V.A. officials in their present demands.

The remedy, Mr. McNeill said, can be found at comparatively little expense, Mr. McNeill said, and their application will have a great effect on the feelings of the returned men throughout the Dominion.

EDUCATION PAYS ON THE FARM.

Statistics show that farmers who have had an education make larger incomes than those who have received little schooling. An education is more necessary now than it was thirty years ago. Farming has changed greatly in this period. Then, farmers cut their grain with a scythe, hauled it by hand and thrashed it with a flail. They ground their grain between stones and lifted the water out of the well in buckets. They treated their non-descript cattle for "milk fever" and "wolf in the tail" and planted their grain "in the moon." The horse and the ox were their only means of transportation. The farm houses had no conveniences, houses were lit with candles; the kitchen equipment consisted largely of hard work with the farmers' manual tools. They cut and hauled their grain with binders and thresh with engine driven separators. They frequently plow with tractors, motorized automobiles. They select various grades of grain that are known to give larger returns than the ordinary varieties. They control diseases and insects, and use improved types of seed. They have shown to give maximum yields. They select improved types of breeding animals and feed their stock in accordance with knowledge derived from the chemistry of foods. The farm houses have been greatly improved. To keep up with the times and to make the most money from the farm, one should know how to farm in accordance with the most improved methods. You can learn all this in a few months what it would take years of experience to learn. Talk with any ex-student regarding the value of the course.

SPEECH BY H.R.H AT EDMONTON LUNCHEON

PRINCE OF WALES DECLARES HIMSELF DELIGHTED WITH TRUE WESTERN WELCOME.

The luncheon given by the provincial authorities at the Macdonald hotel at the close of the morning's events on Friday was a very brilliant affair. Naturally, the great feature was the speech by the Prince of Wales. In reply to the loyal toast, proposed by Premier Stewart, his royal highness gave a speech which was appreciated to the greatest degree by all who heard him.

"I am delighted to find myself," said the Prince of Wales, "in the province of Alberta—particularly in this fine city, its capital, where I have received true western welcome which has touched me very deeply. To me the west of Canada is very inspiring, and I have been very interested and I may say amazed in learning its past history and realizing its rapid growth and development."

Edmonton was possibly the first French post in this fine country, and for many years it was certainly the furthest northwestern point of the great Hudson's Bay company. The vast mountain system of the Rockies was first seen by two great French explorers a little more than a century and a half ago, though the exact point which they reached, is, I understand, uncertain. The first man to cross the Rockies and reach the Pacific coast was the gallant Scottish pioneer Alexander McKenzie, who achieved this feat some fifty years later. I look on the history of this early exploration as proof of how the foundation stone of the great dominion was laid by the enterprise and perseverance of the two great races, British and French, who have combined to form the Canadian nation of today, and how wonderfully successful this combination has been. I have a great advantage in not coming here as a stranger. I cannot feel a stranger having been so closely associated with the Canadian corps and consequently with Alberta men on active service. I come as a true Canadian and though I know I am repeating myself when I say this, I have the Canadian spirit so strongly within me that I must repeat myself. Now I am doing my best to become a westerner. I do not think this should be difficult, because I am a young man and the west is above all things a land of youth. The country appeals to me and I have enjoyed crossing the great prairies and am looking forward to seeing the mountains. When I crossed the threshold of the west at Winnipeg I said that I was sure I would not be disappointed in all I expected to see in this great land and my expectations have been more than realized. The prairies give me an intense feeling of freedom and I realize the great possibilities of the region and the wonderful future which lies before it. I feel all the more deeply impressed when I think that Alberta has been a province for less than twenty years. In consequence of my close association with Alberta men on active service their splendid services are known to me and I could never pay a high enough tribute to the famous Alberta battalions, or adequately summarise the battles in which they have fought and won.

As in all provinces your casualties were heavy and I mourn with you the loss of so many gallant men who lie sleeping on the western front and offer my deepest sympathy to their kin and kin. As the fighting men never spared themselves, so those who remain at home worked as they had never worked before feeding the men, feeding the guns and making it possible for us to maintain our great land forces, and we all know the splendid way in which the women came forward and helped wherever there was work to be done. The part Alberta played in the last five trying and strenuous years towards the attainment of victory is one of the reasons why she will be called upon to wield influence and power in the dominion and in the British commonwealth. Canada did so much toward winning the war that she has now taken her place in the fraternity of nations and the signature of her representative at the peace conference is appended to the peace of Versailles.

Only two days ago the Canadian representative signed the treaty of peace with Austria-Hungary. This shows the power that is developing on Canada not only within the British commonwealth, but in the history of the world. You have the history of British institutions on the northern part of the great continent make or mar, and I know from what you have achieved in the past and from your magnificent records in the war that British institutions, British unity and the British flag are safe in your keeping.

PRINCE CHANGES HIS PROGRAMME

Winnipeg, Sept. 10.—The public, newspapermen, photographers and those responsible for the royal programme of activities, had one "slipped over on them" by the Prince of Wales today. Instead of making a trip of inspection to Manitoba Agricultural College, he played 14 holes of golf with the professional at the St. Charles Country Club.

Hundreds of people waited along the highway to the college for hours. At one school along the way, classes were cancelled and the kiddies handed the pavement with Union Jacks in their hands. The reason for the prince's change in the programme was that he needed relaxation after the strenuous programme Tuesday.

He wanted to get away from the crowds, and there was only one way to do it. Even officials of his immediate staff were not permitted to accompany him to the golf links.

TO FIX PROFITS ON EVERYTHING SAYS O'CONNOR

HEAVY PENALTY BEING PROVIDED

Ottawa, Sept. 16.—"It seems that we will fix profits on everything just as we have done on sugar," said W. F. O'Connor, vice-president of the board of commerce, Friday, when asked as to the exact portion of last night's announcement that the board will make a series of inquiries and afterwards fix a scale of profits, to exceed which will be an offence with a heavy penalty.

"The fixing of profits," said Mr. O'Connor, "involves the fixing of the prices, but makes allowances for varying conditions in varying zones. After making inquiries upon which we are now starting, and establishing machinery to continue them, we will be able to learn what is the actual cost of the goods, and then determine what is a fair profit thereon. The next step will be to set a date at which the price will be effective. These prices will be based on the cost of the goods. Meanwhile, commerce will have to heat down to the level decided on. We will then issue an order restraining all persons from selling at a price above that of the goods, and from selling at a profit greater than that which is determined."

FINES AND IMPRISONMENT.

"All who disobey the order are liable to a fine of $1,000 a day or to imprisonment. The co-operation of the provincial, attorney general will be needed in connection with the indictments, and we must not be difficult on that score, if the attorney general will sign the indictment, will be prepared to go into court and prosecute in person."

It is understood that the commodities primarily to be gone into with the objects mentioned in view are all kinds of food stuffs and clothing, boots and shoes.

A big factor in the organization is co-operation with the United States. There are certain international companies which regulate prices in their lines and which can be got at only by joint co-operative action. The board office is now establishing.

STRIKE LEADERS GRANTED BAIL

Winnipeg, Sept. 11.—After twenty-six days' incarceration, the eight strike leaders who have been held in the provincial jail pending their trial on charges of seditious conspiracy were, at 5:20 p.m. Wednesday, in judges' chambers, granted bail. Chief Justice Macdougall, together with Mr. Justice MacDonald and Mr. Justice McKeown, heard the arguments of counsel, read the decision of the court.

Bail was granted in the sum of $4,000 each and two sureties of $2,000 each.

The court found that the accused had not been proven that the accused would not appear to stand their trial and the decision went on to state: "The court would not be justified in releasing them on the sole ground that public safety might be endangered by permitting the accused to be at large."

GERMAN EXACTATIONS AGAINST HOLLANDERS.

Rotterdam, Holland.—Much light is thrown upon the conditions which prevail in Germany by the story related by a prominent Hollander upon the occasion of his recent return from that country. His wife is German, and he has considerable interests in Germany, where he resided during the war. Wishing to return to Holland, he was not permitted by the government to do so until he had paid five years' advance income tax as a security that he would return, calculated on the average yearly income tax paid during the past five years. The advance income tax paid by this Hollander amounted to 270,000 marks.

Shoes, he says, are very dear in Germany, a pair of shoes bought at his wife costing him 500 marks. The government has placed a maximum price on foodstuffs. The large farms are controlled by the state, and the rest of the country, and they have refused to sell their farm products at the maximum prices. Foodstuffs are now scarcer than during the war.

The most obtainable has to be scraped before using, because it is so bad. Fresh meat is difficult to get, and a great amount of salt meat is used. A cake of chocolate, which could be bought in Holland for 10 cents, would sell for 15 marks in Germany.

ECONOMICS.

"If women gain political control—'Yes, go on.'"

"Do you think they will allow the government to persist in collecting taxes on ice cream soda water?"

COULD HARDLY GET HER BREATH

MRS. ALBERTSON'S ONLY REGRET IS SHE DIDN'T COMMENCE TAKING TANLAG SOONER.

"So many people who suffered the same way I did, claimed to get relief by taking Tanlag that I finally decided to see what it would do for me, and the results are I am enjoying the good health in every way now as I ever did in my life," said Mrs. J. H. Albertson, who lives at 659, Kingsway, Vancouver, on her other day.

"I suffered for a long time before I made up my mind to give Tanlag a trial," continued Mrs. Albertson, "and now since taking this wonderful medicine, the only regret I have is that I didn't commence on it sooner than I did. My stomach was in bad condition and for two or three hours after eating I would be perfectly miserable on account of my food soaring and causing gas to form. Sometimes this gas would get up to my chest and cause my heart to palpitate, and I would hardly be able to get a good breath. Then, at times when I was very nervous, the least thing would upset me, and I never slept very well. I also suffered from headaches, and the small of my back finally got so weary and run-down I was hardly able to get about."

"That was the condition I was in when I commenced taking Tanlag, but a few bottles of this wonderful medicine have made a big change in me in every way. In fact, I feel like a different person entirely, and am enjoying as good health as I ever did in my life. I have a fine appetite, and I am never bothered with indigestion or sour stomach. I am hardly ever bothered with nervousness now, and I sleep just like a baby every night. I am so well and strong that I can do all my household work, and the least trouble. Tanlag certainly has proven a great blessing to me, and as long as I live I will praise it for the good it has done me."

Tanlag is sold in Red Deer by Gaget-Cornett Drug & Book Co., in Sletting by the Palace Pharmacy, Ltd. in Kelowna by Kelowna Drug Co., in Vancouver by E. J. Hogge, and in Hesperia by Macdonnell Bros.

CURB PROFITEERING IN BRITAIN

London.—The house of commons, after heated debate, adopted an amendment to the profiteering bill, empowering the board of trade, after an investigation, to fix wholesale and retail prices. The vote was 132 to 55.

The amendment was denounced, among others, by Lord Robert Cecil, former minister of war trade, who expressed amazement that the government should accept an amendment destroying the whole basis of the bill and revolutionizing the trade of the country. Sir Donald Maclean, a Liberal member, also denounced the amendment, characterizing it as "rank socialism of the most muddled kind."

In the course of the discussion on the bill, Sir Auckland Geddes, minister for national service and reconstruction, indicated that the bill would empower the board of trade to fix prices in a case where the community was likely to be bled by any combination, national or international, for the purpose of increasing prices. An amendment seeking to include profiteering in rentals within the scope of the bill was rejected.

EXPULSED JEWS HELPED INDUSTRIES.

An old bit of commercial history comes to light with the granting of citizenship to Jews in Poland, and shows how Russia, in expelling the race from Moscow, provided Poland with a human factor of great importance in developing her own industrial resources. Politically Poland lay helpless in the grip of her powerful neighbor, residing as it did, in the midst of the determination to destroy the last vestige of Polish national existence. Industrially, on the other hand, her coal and iron ore districts had developed. Polish centers of manufacture superior to those of Russia, but dependent for success on the sale of their products in Russian markets. Jews came from Moscow who were familiar with Russian trade conditions, had already established personal trade relations with Russian cities, and were admirably fitted to develop a commercial program between the two countries. These men became the natural intermediaries between Polish and Russians in business, and their expulsion from Russia is doubtless one reason for the prosperity of Polish industries at Lodz, Warsaw and Petrokov.

BERLIN MIGHT HAVE BEEN CAPTURED

SAYS GREAT BRITAIN IS FAILING TO APPRECIATE INTERNAL COMBUSTION ENGINE

London, Sept. 16.—Baron Fisher, in a series of articles in the Times on the development of the navy, in describing the inauguration of his reforms, says that the Scapa was unsurveyed and mapless in 1905, when he sent a surveying vessel there the result being that the fleet was stationed there before the war.

He declares that reactionaries derided the battle cruisers. These "muddlers" also did not carry out his plan for an armada of 612 vessels authorized by Lloyd George, then chancellor of the exchequer, for landing a million Russians within 24 miles of Berlin, amphibious monsters, weather, shot and mine proof, each loading masses of men, guns, horse and tanks, plowing their way like huge hippopotami and crawling up the shore like huge lizards. The oil engine would have done it, the engine which is yet to revolutionize commerce and alter sea warfare, declared Lord Fisher. He says he is most reluctant to re-enter the arena, but what was meant for privacy must be published to help economy in the drastic scrapping necessary to the very life.

AN ABSURD POLICY.

As the nation condemns "the criminal folly of the silly crowd," who want the British army dispersed over the world, he says the massacre of Pegasus and Zanzibar were due to this absurd policy of isolated small craft in peace time. He declares the fact that the mission of the battle cruiser was totally unappreciated until the invincible sank von Spee's squadron. The Scapa, which was captured, escaped because the battle cruisers in the Mediterranean were not used. If they had been they would have annihilated the von Spee and Brestlau. There would have been no Gallipoli and the Baltic would have been occupied and Berlin captured by the British fleet. But the most striking feature of the pre-war period was the ridicule cast on the submarine, declares Lord Fisher.

GOT LITTLE CREDIT.

When a young marine commander at pre-war manoeuvres twice torpedoed the hostile flagship and claimed it as a prize, the admiral got was the admiral's signals, "You be damned."

Lord Fisher quotes a memorandum he dictated in January, 1914, in which he said the submarine was the coming type of warfare for sea fighting. He declares he was literally presented for building the submarine while first sea lord. He says when he left the admiralty in January, 1916, there were 61 efficient submarines and 12 battleships. Also, he returned in 1914 there were only 51.

In consequence of this Lord Fisher says he summoned Charles Schwab, who delivered a batch of the submarines in five months, an unprecedented feat, as fourteen months was previously the record. These submarines went to the United States and the Dardanelles without convoy, and carried out prodigious action.

Lord Fisher declares the British nation is going to make "the same damned mistake over the internal combustion engine with which every nation except ourselves is forging ahead." He says the experimental laboratory for the development of these engines instituted by the board of invention is ill-fitted in size. "I really look forward to the day of judgment when all the submarines now so highly honored will be exposed and fagellated."

Lord Fisher closes by declaring that in the years 1902 to 1910 the admiralty won the war.

BAD FOREST FIRE RAGING IN SOUTH

CAMPERS BLAMED FOR CONFLAGRATION STARTED ON HOY MILL SITE.

More dry weather in the southern country, and carelessness of campers has brought about a serious forest fire situation in the district south and east of Cardston, where tremendous damage to timber and sawmills property is being done by a great conflagration. Forest rangers from all sections of the province have been summoned by Forest Inspector E. H. Finlayson, to fight this new fire which is said to have been started by campers upon the old mill site formerly cut over by W. W. Macdonald, and other lumbermen some 10 years ago.

For more than a week efforts have been in progress to fight the fire, men having been called from Macdonald, View, Leavitt and Beaver, until some 200 are now on the ground attacking the forest rangers from the Waterton Lakes park.

A number of settlers' cabins were burned in the St. Mary's lake district and arms of the big fire have pushed down the Swift Current Valley and over into the Kennedy Creek country of the Glacier National park. There are also big fires burning on the United States side of the line where a force of U.S.A. rangers are in charge of the struggle. Volunteers have been called for from Cardston and the surrounding district.

Some cattle were trapped in the fire, but as yet the livestock losses have not been great.
